DAVID HAYDEN SPEAKS AT NORTH CAROLINA MILITARY BUSINESS CENTER

08.29.2012

RALEIGH, N.C. – David Hayden, a lawyer with Smith Anderson’s Government Contracting practice group, recently delivered a seminar on contracting with the federal government at the North Carolina Military Business Center (NCMBC) at the Spring Lake Campus of Fayetteville Technical Community College on August 9, 2012. The presentation, entitled “Teaming Arrangements: Joint Ventures, Subcontracts and Teaming Agreements,” is a seminar Mr. Hayden presented in conjunction with NCMBC’s Contracting Academy.

Mr. Hayden regularly speaks to members of the business community on government contracting and other legal issues. At the NCMBC, Mr. Hayden discussed recent legal and regulatory developments in United States Government contracting and the impact of federal contracting upon North Carolina’s economy. Mr. Hayden also addressed practical lessons he has learned related to forming teams with other companies, drafting agreements in support of those teams, and pursuing government contracting proposals as a team. Mr. Hayden also shared substantive legal developments, including recent changes to the Federal Acquisition Regulations and their supplements, as well as recent decisions on bid protests from the United States Government Accountability Office and federal courts.

About David Hayden

Mr. Hayden has extensive experience in government contracting, general corporate, and employment law. He regularly advises companies and their directors and officers on corporate governance matters and other general corporate and business topics. He also represents a variety of defense contractors, advising on a broad range of federal contracting corporate issues such as International Trafficking in Arms Regulations (ITAR), corporate ethics, and organizational conflicts of interest (OCI) compliance issues.
